STEAMER BANDORILLE LOST

CAPTAIN WINANT DROWNED

Wrecked on Umpqua Bar. The Crew and Passengers Saved by the Life Saving Crew After Hours of Hard Work.

PORTLAND, Nov. 23.—The steamer Bandorille, owned by Edward H. Highbush, of this city, became disabled while crossing the Umpqua river bar yesterday, and drifting in the breakers, stranded. Captain J. J. Winant was swept overboard and drowned.

The Bandorille left Portland a month ago for San Francisco and way ports. Captain Winant had been offered considerable way freight, and was steaming back and forth between Yaquina, Umpqua and Coos bay. The steamer passed over the Umpqua bar Tuesday and tied up at Gardiner. Wednesday the captain started for sea, but finding the bar breaking heavily, abandoned the attempt. Yesterday, another attempt was made to go over, although a tremendous sea was running. The starboard rudder chain parted leaving the Bandorille helplessly rolling. Sea after sea broke over the doomed steamer as she drifted toward the breakers on the south shore, but Captain Winant held to his post on the bridge and it was this devotion to duty that cost him his life. After a half hour of terrible pounding, during which Captain Winant was submerged time and again, the Bandorille struck the beach. Numb with cold and exhausted from his efforts in clinging to the bridge he descended to the deck to look after the safety of passengers and crew. Breakers were piling over the steamer, and he ordered all to the lee side of the cabin, where they would be safe from being washed overboard. He then attempted to make his way forward that he might see what progress the life saving crew were making. Reaching the head of the pilot-house, he was forced to let go his hold of the lee bulwarks and leap across the gangway, to grasp the rail fastened to the cabin. In attempting to do this he slipped on the careened and sea-washed deck. Towering over the ship was a foam crested mountain of water. That instant was too short for Captain Winant to recover himself and in the surging flood of that breaking sea he was carried overboard; rescue being impossible.

It was impossible for the life-saving crew to reach the Bandorille. An attempt was made to fire a line over the steamer from the shore, and after two hours' hard work it was accomplished and the passengers and crew brought ashore in the "breches buoy." Captain J. J. Winant was one of the best known and most popular skippers on the Pacific coast. He was fifty-one years of age and resided at Yaquina, where he leaves a family of grown children, his wife being dead.

The Bandorille is a total loss; was built at Yaquina in 1889 for the Deep Sea Fishing company, but was later brought to Portland, lengthened and placed in the coasting trade. Her value was about $20,000, fully insured.

An Important Discovery.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 21.—Professor Balluff, professor of engineering and chemistry and physics at the Arkansas Methodist college at Arkansas, has discovered a new method for the manufacture of illuminating gas. The gas is capable of giving a very high light and will yield a twelve candle power from an ordinary illuminating burner. The process is purely chemical and is the cheapest known. The discovery is attracting attention in the scientific world.

Durrant Not Yet Sentenced.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Theodore Durrant was taken to court this morning for sentence. His attorneys desired to argue the motion for a new trial. After some preliminary the case went over till this afternoon, when the whole matter of Durrant's sentence and motion for a new trial went over until next Wednesday at the request of defendant's attorneys, who want further time to prepare affidavits on which to base a motion for a new trial.

After the Cannermen.

EUGENE Or., Nov. 21.—Constable Linton started for Florence this morning with warrants for the arrest of the proprietors of the two salmon canneries at the mouth of the Sluslaw, who are charged with violating the laws regulating the taking of salmon on certain seasons. The close season on the river commenced November 1, but information reached the officers here that the law was being violated, and the canneries were in operation. After accumulating evidence supposed to be sufficient for conviction, the warrants were issued, alleging specific violations of the law since November 1. It is also probable that many of the fishermen supplying the canneries will be arrested. The loss of two weeks at the time of the strike is supposed to have induced the violation, in order to make up the deficiency of the season's pack. The deputy game warden and deputy sheriff at Florence have taken no action against the offenders.

An Oregon Lottery.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The postoffice department has issued a fraud order against the Preferred Bond and Investment Co., Portland, Oregon, of which W. G. Bailey is secretary, treasurer and general manager. The charge is conducting a lottery or similar enterprise.

Communication.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7, '95.

EDITOR EXPRESS:

In continuance of our notes from this section, we will speak this week in a general way to introduce several features of interest along some special lines aside from the regular courses of college work.

The "Students Lecture Association" here organized is universally acknowledged to be both the largest and the best association of its kind in America. It was organized in 1854, and in 1893, took out articles of incorporation. According to its constitution every student in any department of the University who buys a season ticket shall be a member and entitled to vote in all affairs of the association. The cost to each member annually is $2; and it has been the aim of the association to bring before the students and citizens, the very highest standard of entertainments and lectures to be secured in the world's market. At no time has the association hesitated at expense but has chosen as its motto, "The Best is the Cheapest," consequently has paid as high as $1800 for one number (Henry M. Stanley.) The lectures are given in the spacious assembly hall of the university which has a numbered seating capacity of 2848.

The association has eleven numbers this year, the most noted of which are David Bennett Hill, ex-Sec. Jno. W. Foster, Rev. Talmadge, Henry Waterson, Max O'Rell, Theodore Roosevelt and Archbishop Ireland, besides the "Boston Temple Quartett" and other concert companies.

The season opened October 25, with a lecture by Senator David Bennett Hill. Mr. Hill's chosen subject was "Old Landmarks." He stepped upon the platform at 8 p. m., and after receiving a hearty welcome in the cheers and clapping of about 2,000 students and others seated before him, he proceeded with his address and held that audience for nearly two and one-half hours. Mr. Hill is a well formed man of commanding appearance, and looks young for his years. He is now fifty-two years of age but would pass readily for forty. His address was delivered in a full and strong voice, and opened in a familiar way by the recital of a Scotch legend which he said he had somewhere read. As he came upon his subject he lifted to the vision one after another such men as Galillee, Newton, Shakespeare, Franklin, Napoleon, Washington, Jefferson, Morse, Edison and others associating each with his life work and their consequences upon civilization and governmental affairs. He also touched the question of our late Civil war and the consequent greenback issue. Here he was led into the money question of this country; the question which it was evident to every listener went to the speaker's heart. But he curbed his remarks in this direction, and plainly said he did not come to discuss the silver question now, though he would plainly pronounce himself a sound money man of the firm conviction that there could be but one standard and that gold.

Besides the Students Lecture Association there is the "Unity Lecture Club." This club has a course of twenty entertainments this year. In its purpose and management is very similar to the association described.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Its course however is not quite so strong and for the season membership, the fee is $1 only.

For the lovers of music there is an organization known as the "Choral Union." This is perhaps in many respects the greatest side feature to the university. The course this year consists of ten concerts. The season opened November 1, with the Chicago Orchestra, with Theodore Thomas conductor. Mr. Thomas is one of the finest program-makers in the world, but an attempt to sketch a musicle by one who does not know one note from another would not be worth the attention of the reader so I will not dwell upon it further. The leading characters in the succeeding concerts for the year will be Mme. Clementine De Vere-Sapio, one of the most charming singers before the public, M. Achille Rivarde, violinist, and M. Alme Lacharme, pianist. The closing concert, will consist of five entertainments known as the May Festival, beginning on the Thursday evening to be selected and continuing through Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon and evening. The highest enthusiasm and excitement usually prevails at these May Festivals; reserved seats not infrequently running up to from $8 to $12 per pair. This is a great advance when you will understand that the season ticket with reserve seat for all ten of the entertainments is $3.

A Piano for $40!!

Chicago's most prominent music house, Lyon & Healy, have a number of slightly used and second-hand pianos, taken in trade, used in concerts, and in fact not brand new instruments, which they have determined to sacrifice rather than try to make room for. These instruments comprise square pianos at $40, $65, $90, $100 and $125. Upright pianos at $125, $140, $150, $165, $190, $200, $225, $240 and upward. Grand pianos at $200, $250 and $300 and upward. Nearly all originally sold for from two to four times their present price. Almost all prominent makes (in squares and uprights) are represented, including among numerous others Chickering, Knabe, Steinway, Weber, Decker, Steck, Fisher, etc. This is an opportunity that will not occur again, as Lyon & Healy never had so many pianos of this class before. Immediate attention is necessary. A good plan would be to order a piano, leaving the selection to Lyon & Healy. However, they will send a list and full particulars upon application. Any piano not proving satisfactory may be returned at their expense. Address at their new salesrooms, corner Wabash avenue and Adams street, Chicago. Distance is no obstacle in taking advantage of this remarkable chance to obtain a piano, for in proportion to the saving to be made, the freight charges are insignificant. If you do not already know them by reputation, any banker will assure you of Lyon & Healy's entire responsibility and record of over a third of a century for honorable dealing. Write to-day so as to avoid disappointment.
